The FMU Eight

A Puerto Rican octet helps FMU volleyball reach rarefied heights

Florida Memorial University, a volleyball squad picked to finish seventh in The Sun Conference (NAIA) in 2019-2020, and one that had never finished higher than fifth in the conference standings in 14 seasons, won their conference's tournament championship and earned an automatic bid to the NAIA national tournament. It is little wonder they were picked to finish seventh: that's where they finished the year prior, with an 11-15 overall record, and 4-12 in-conference. Indeed, 2019 was a season of "first-evers" for the Lions program: first-ever NAIA national tournament appearance, first-ever conference tournament title, first-ever season with a winning record, heck, first-ever season with at least 12 wins. That's right: before 2019, 2018's 11-15 season had actually been a banner year for FMU volleyball. In 2017, the Lions had a 10-15 overall record, and 3-17 and 6-19 in the 2 years prior. Between 2010 and 2014, FMU won not a single in-conference volleyball match. Yup, a combined conference record of 0-59 in those best-forgotten five years, and 8 total in-conference wins in 72 matches in the five years prior to those. Considering their previous 14 seasons, FMU's 22-11 record (11-5 in-conference) in 2019 would seem almost miraculous.

A stunning turnaround 2019 saw an FMU program that hadn't had a season with a winning record in 14 years reach 22 wins and win their conference tournament, earning them their first-ever trip to the NAIA national tournament. (Photo: FMU Athletics).

2019 was coach and miracle worker Marrita Crockett-Moulton's maiden season at the helm of these improbable Lady Lions. She is a former standout player with Florida A&M University, where she played with teammates of several nationalities, and later she went on to play in Switzerland herself. Her experience interacting with players of other countries had to have come in handy in leading her FMU charges to bring about such a shocking result. The 2019 Lions took internationalization to a whole new level, featuring players hailing from Brazil (2), Italy (1), Dominican Republic (1), Venezuela (1), Serbia (1), and 8 players from Puerto Rico, the most Puerto Rican players of any college volleyball team in the country, in any division. Setters Francheska Rivera (San Juan) and Alanis Santana (Bayamón) orchestrated the Lions offense, which included Italian Rachele Mancinelli, probably the best player on the team (she certainly was in the conference tournament), as well as 1st team All-Conference outside hitter Biancaliz Cruz (Caguas), Sammyra Albarrán (San Germán), Brazilian Daphinie Correa, and Jesennia Bonilla (Ceiba). At the heart of the defense was junior libero Keisha Santana (Juncos), who paced The Sun in digs/set with 4.93 and was a Second Team All-Conference selection in 2019. Outside hitter Adriana Soto (Guaynabo) had 99 kills during the year, and Marianne Negrón (Loíza) also participated with the Lions.

The Lions' 11-5 in-conference record earned them the fourth seed in the six-team Sun Conference Volleyball Championship, an event they had last qualified for in 2017, and never before that, so this was a "second ever" milestone for the team. They played St. Thomas University in the first round, a team with which they had split two 4-set matches in the regular season, the visiting team winning in each case. In what would become a theme throughput the tournament, FMU found itself behind 1-2 in sets after taking the first one, and had to rally to take the last 2 sets and the match, earning FMU volleyball its first-ever (hey, there's another "first-ever") trip to the conference tournament semis, where they would play top seed and tournament host Keiser University. The Lions had also split a pair of matches with the Seahawks in the regular season, in this case a pair of 5-set matches, each time the visiting team taking the match. As tournament hosts and number one seed, the Seahawks were themselves looking forward to winning their first-ever Sun Conference championship. Their defense was anchored by 2nd team All-Conference libero Stephanie Sánchez (San Juan). The regular season series between the two teams indicated the match would be a close one, and so it was. Following the script of the St. Thomas match, FMU fell behind 1-2 after taking a tightly contested first set, falling apart in the second, then losing the third 24-26. Then they roared back, easily taking the 4th set 25-12 and edging Keiser 19-17 in the deciding set, where they fought off 3 match points before.taking the match. Cinderella was still dancing, and she was now Finals bound.

Awaiting in the finals were defending Sun Conference champions College of Coastal Georgia, who had dispatched Southeastern University in the semifinals in 3 sets. The Mariners could boast of a star Puerto Rican libero of their own, 1st team All-Conference Yorelis Ríos (Barranquitas), who holds several defensive records and has a pretty mean serve, too. In 2019, Ríos was named Libero of the Year in The Sun Conference. FMU had also split the regular season series with the Mariners, each time the visiting team coming out ahead, too. In the final match, FMU edged out the Mariners 25-23 in the opening set, then dropped the next two 14-25 and 17-25. Raise your hand if you've heard this before: The Lions found themselves in a 1-2 hole after three. Then they, once again, proceeded to mount their comeback, taking the last 2 sets 25-18 and 15-10. Having played 15 grueling sets of tournament volleyball in 5 days, they had now reached the summit: Florida Memorial University were, for the first time ever, The Sun Conference Tournament champions, and had punched their ticket to the 2019 NAIA National Volleyball Tournament. The team that was "full of emotion, all of the time", as one narrator put it, had taken their fans on a roller coaster ride to the top. Along the way, the Italian Mancinelli and the Brazilian Correa led the offense, with Biancaliz Cruz and Sammyra Albarrán right behind them, and Jesennia Bonilla making key contributions in the Keiser match. Mancineli, especially, seemed to come up with a big play every time they needed one, and actually scored the winning point of the tournament on a kill. Francheska Rivera and Alanis Santana conducted the offense, combining for 60 assists in the match against Keiser, while Keisha Santana collected 78 digs in the 3 tournament matches, including 34 digs in the championship match, for an average of 5.2 per set.

Most of the players were back for 2020 as seniors, with the exception of Mancinelli, who transferred to Florida International University to play beach volleyball. Due to the health crisis, FMU played only seven matches of an already reduced schedule before the players voted to call it quits for the year, so they didn't get a chance to properly defend their title. In their next-to-last match in 2020, a depleted nine-player FMU squad visited Coastal Georgia and were up 2 sets to none before the Mariners came back and took the match. It is unclear if those very few matches will count towards their eligibility or if they would be allowed to play again in 2021. It would be great if they could give their fans one last hurrah.

An offensive juggernaut University of Missouri's Andrea Fuentes (left, San Juan) and Kylie Deberg (Iowa) were one of the most exciting setter-OH duos in 2019. Throughout the season, Fuentes dished out an SEC-leading 1,306 assists, averaging 11.77 per set (5th in NCAA Division I) while running a Tigers offense that hit for a 0.301 hitting percentage, 4th in the country. Meanwhile the 6'4 Deberg, a WWE fan, laid the smackdown on opposing defenses, tallying 524 kills at a 4.72 per set clip (#1 in the SEC), ranking in the country's top 20 in both categories. (Photos: Mizzou Athletics).

A superlative offense

The college volleyball world probably started paying a little more attention to Missouri Tigers Andrea Fuentes (San Juan), a redshirt freshman in 2018, and Kylie Deberg, a sophomore, after the then-unranked Tigers went to Gainesville, Florida on an October Sunday in 2018 and defeated the 11th-ranked Florida Gators in 5 sets. Fuentes dished out what was then a career-high 47 assists, while Deberg established a personal best of her own with 21 kills, 5 of them in the decisive set. Up until that point, about two thirds of the way into the season, Missouri had gone unranked in the AVCA poll, but they were in it, at 24th, when it was released the very next day, and they would remain in the poll for the rest of the year. The Tigers are no strangers to upsets. At the NCAA Division I Tournament the previous year, they upset former Big 12 foe Kansas, ranked 19th in the country at the time, and then punched their ticket to the Sweet 16 by beating host Wichita State, #16 in the country at the time.

The following Sunday, Fuentes tallied 61 assists in a five-set victory against Texas A&M. Molly Kreklow, a 2018 volunteer assistant coach with the Tigers at the time, had been the last Missouri player

A quantum leap Besides dramatically improving her individual numbers, going from 1,026 to 1,306 assists and from 8.69 assists per set to 11.77 (5th in the country), Andrea Fuentes guided the Missouri offense to a 0.301 hitting percentage, 4th best in the country, second-best in program history, and almost 50 points better than the previous year. to top 60 assists in a match, dishing out 62 of them during a November 2010 contest, almost 8 years prior. Fuentes was named SEC Freshman of the Week in consecutive weeks, and was a 2018 SEC All-Freshman Team selection. Teammate and fellow San Juan native Dariana Hollingsworth, who places her shots so artfully that even if she were to tell her opponents where she intends to hit the ball, they probably still couldn't get there in time, was a 2018 All-SEC selection. Deberg was cast into the national spotlight when she received an AVCA Honorable Mention All-America distinction. The Tigers offense improved significantly, from hitting for a 0.244 hitting percentage, 55th in the country in 2017, to 0.261, 21st in the country in 2018. The Tigers' campaign ended in the second round of the NCAA Tournament in Lincoln, Nebraska, at the hands of the 7th-ranked Nebraska Cornhuskers, who enjoyed the home court advantage provided by 8,000-plus Big Red fans and took the match in the minimum number of sets.

In 2019, both Fuentes and Deberg cemented their status as bonafide standouts, with Fuentes named the SEC Player of the Week three times and Deberg twice. Fuentes received national attention of her own when she was named the AVCA Division I National Player of the Week on December the 3rd, while the AVCA upgraded Deberg at season's end from Honorable Mention All-America in 2018 to Second Team All-America in 2019. Both of them, along with junior middle blocker Tyanna Omazic, a deadly slide hitter who, along with Deberg, transferred to Mizzou from the University of Illinois, were All-SEC selections. The Tigers' offense reached some lofty heights, too, ranking 4th in the country in hitting percentage with 0.301, second-best in the history of the program, and 5th in kills per set with 14.67. Hollingsworth and Omazic, in particular, saw their hitting percentage numbers skyrocket, the former going from 0.251 to 0.317, and Omazic from 0.253 to an astonishing 0.386 hitting percentage, a 0.133 improvement that placed her 2nd in the SEC and 29th in the whole country. Deberg's efficiency made a quantum leap of its own, going from 0.214 to 0.281, which translated into almost 100 more kills. Fuentes herself was 5th in the country in assists per set with 11.77, and her 1,306 assists led the SEC. Missouri was able to upset #13 Michigan early on in the season, and played in some extremely contested matches against teams ranked much higher than themselves, like Baylor, Hawaii, and Florida, but was on the wrong end of an upset, too, when it fell at home in 4 sets to the unranked University of Mississippi Rebels, a.k.a. Ole Miss.

Also, they have a tendency to lose large leads when playing highly ranked opponents. The Kentucky Wildcats, who have emerged as an SEC powerhouse, swept the Tigers in both of their matches in 2019. In the first Kentucky match, playing at home, the Tigers were up in each set by at least 4 points before the Wildcats would mount a comeback and take it. In the first set, Mizzou was ahead 20-16 but ultimately conceded it 27-29. In 2020, again playing at home against UK, the Tigers took the first set and were up 10-3 in the second stanza before, once again, Kentucky came back to take the set 33-35. This probably shouldn't happen to an elite team playing at home. Another example: The 2019 season ended in the same place and NCAA Tournament round and at the hands of the same opponents as did the 2018 season. This time the Tigers proved to be an extremely tough out, with the third set going into the thirties before Nebraska was able to take it, and eventually the match, in four. After splitting the first two sets, Missouri was up 11-6 in that third set before the Cornhuskers scored 8 points in a row. Much easier said than done, of course, but the Tigers could make things much more interesting if they could figure out a way to keep the foot on the pedal and close the door when they are ahead by a large margin, especially late in a set, and especially against top-ranked opponents. If they could manage that, they would probably have a good shot at making a deep run in the national tournament.

Three reasons why Hollingsworth, Deberg, and Omazic were three big reasons why Missouri's hitting percentage went from 0.263, 21st in the country in 2018, to 0.301, 4th in the country in 2019. (Photos: Mizzou Athletics)

2019 also saw the arrival on campus of freshman Leandra Mangual (Río Grande), a 6'1 player who bravely took on the role of libero even though she had never played the position before. Mangual was the team libero for the first 13 matches of the season before switching to a defensive specialist role coming off the bench. She had a season-high 23 digs in a 5-set match against the University of Hawai'i and tallied 207 digs in 2019, playing in every set throughout.

The Kreklows

One could take a generous view of the 1990's Missouri Tigers volleyball teams and say they had difficulty in finding the road to success. Missouri enjoyed exactly one winning season (1992) in a decade that included an especially challenging 1996 campaign in which the Tigers won not a single match, posting an 0-28 record (although they did push 4 teams to 5 sets). Meanwhile, about a mile up North College Road, Susan and Wayne Kreklow spent the decade building an NAIA powerhouse at Columbia College. The Cougars won over 90% of their matches between 1995 and 1997. In 1998 and 1999, they were undefeated, winning 85 matches in a row and the national title both years. In the Kreklows' ten-year tenure, starting in 1990, the Cougars posted a 0.841 winning percentage.

In the year 2000, the Kreklows moved their operation down the road and took charge of the neighbors' volleyball program, which had finished 9-21 the year prior, 9th in the Big 12 Conference. With Susan Kreklow at the helm, the Tigers dramatically turned things around, posting a 24-7 record, finishing 2nd in the Big 12, and making their first-ever trip to the NCAA Tournament. Not surprisingly, Kreklow was named the Big 12 Coach of the Year. Missouri would go on to the Tournament the next 7 years in a row, too, a run that included a 2005 Elite Eight appearance, their best

Setter wisdom Fuentes receives guidance from assistant coach and former Mizzou star setter Molly Taylor. In 2013, Taylor, then known as Molly Kreklow, led the Tigers offense to a 0.356 hitting percentage, best in the country and best-ever in program history. Led by Fuentes, the 2019 Tigers' 0.301 hitting percentage was fourth-best in NCAA Division I and second only to Taylor's 2013 Tigers in program history. (Photo: Mizzou Athletics) result so far in the postseason. That year marked the debut of Wayne Kreklow as head volleyball coach, and he would remain in charge for the rest of the Kreklows' time at Mizzou. In 2013, a year after their move to the SEC, the Tigers finished the regular season with a perfect record: 34-0, winning the SEC regular season title for the first time. They would win it a second time, in 2016, sharing it with the Florida Gators. In their 19-year tenure, from 2000 to 2018, the Kreklows posted a 413-194 record (0.680), with only two seasons with a losing record. Mizzou played in the NCAA Tournament 15 times, reached the Sweet 16 3 times, and the Elite Eight once.

The Taylors

Assistant coach Molly Taylor (née Kreklow), niece of Wayne and Susan Krelow, was a star setter at Mizzou from 2010 to 2013, dishing out 5,366 assists in those 4 years, second all-time in program history. In 2013, she was named an AVCA First Team All-America after conducting the offense of a team that went undefeated (34-0) in the regular season. The Tigers' 0.356 hitting percentage that year led the country by far, and it's the program's best-ever by even farther. In 2014 through 2016, Kreklow played professionally in Germany, Turkey, and Italy. She also played for Team USA in that period, highlighted by her performance at the 2015

FIVB World Grand Prix, where the USA won the title and Kreklow was named Best Setter. In 2019, Kreklow was inducted into the University of Missouri Hall of Fame, the fourth Mizzou volleyball player to receive the honor. Meanwhile, future husband and current Missouri head coach Joshua Taylor was a two-time All-America at Pepperdine University in California, where he had 1,433 kills, and represented the United States at the 2016 Pan Am Cup held in Mexico. In 2016, Taylor also played professionally in Finland and Qatar.

The Taylors took a rather circuitous route to the jobs they currently hold. In 2016, they were both hired as graduate assistant coaches at Mizzou, but then both left the program to pursue professional playing opportunities overseas. Then Missouri's assistant coach Dang Yeng left to take the head coaching job at Stetson University in Florida, and volunteer assistant coach Dewei Shen left as well, so head coach Wayne Kreklow offered their jobs to Joshua and Molly, who, both a little worn out from playing outside the U.S., accepted. In July 2019, Wayne and Susan Kreklow announced their retirements, and Joshua Taylor was named interim head coach, with Molly Taylor as his assistant. In November 2019, Taylor was promoted to full-time head coach, signing a 5-year contract with the Tigers, who posted a 22-8 record and reached the second round of the NCAA Tournament in his first year at the helm. The arrival to the Southeastern Conference of the Taylors and Olympian Kayla Banwarth, who took over the reins at Ole Miss in 2020, along with Top 15 powerhouses Florida and Kentucky, could move the conference a little closer to the college volleyball elite.

The Kreklows The arrival of Susan and Wayne Kreklow in 2000 dramatically changed the fortunes of Missouri volleyball, turning a program that had only one winning season in the nineties into an NCAA Tournament fixture. Susan Kreklow was the Tigers' head coach from 2000 to 2004, during which time the Tigers played in the Tournament every year, something they had never done before. In 2005, she swapped roles with husband Wayne, who shared the court with Bird, McHale, and the rest of the gang in the 1980-1981 Boston Celtics in the NBA (below, left). Under Wayne Kreklow, the Tigers reached the Sweet 16 in 2010, 2016, and 2017, the Elite Eight in 2005, and won the regular season SEC championship twice: 2013 and 2016 (below, right).

A young dynamic duo emerges in Indiana

The early 2019-2020 college volleyball season was taken by storm by University of Evansville's rookie outside hitter Melanie Feliciano (Ponce), who was the Missouri Valley Conference (NCAA Division I) Freshman of the Week in each of the first two weeks of her college career, and 3 out of 4 weeks in September. In her second week, Feliciano was a terror in the offense, amassing 107 kills in a four-match stretch at a clip of 6.69 kills / set while hitting 0.309. The Purple Aces were able to put all 4 matches on the winning column, too. That week, on September 14, 2019, Feliciano collected 29 kills and 9 digs in an early afternoon match against Middle Tennessee State. That was almost an appetizer for the display of power and skill that would take place in the evening match of that Saturday: 36 kills and 20 digs in a 5-set affair against Eastern Illinois that the Purple Aces were only able to pull out after going extra points in the decisive set. Feliciano's 36 kills were, at the time, a single-match record for Evansville, a mark that was eclipsed a few nights later by her teammate and Hong Kong native Rachel Tam with 39 kills of her own. The 36 kills were also the eighth highest total in the country in a 5-set match in 2019. Only one other player in Division I, Jordan Thompson, of the University of Cincinnati, managed 35 kills and 20 digs in a single match. For a brief shining moment, the young ponceña actually led the entire country in kills. The offensive triumvirate of Feliciano, fellow Puerto Rican Alondra Vázquez (Toa Alta), and Hong Kong native Tam had Valley defenses scrambling for cover all season long. Although slowed down and indeed having to miss a few matches due to injury towards the end of the season, Feliciano still finished in the Top 50 in kills nationwide with 456, the fourth most by a freshman in the country. Feliciano was named to both the All-MVC Second Team and the MVC All-Freshman Team. Volleyball Magazine also gave Feliciano an Honorable Mention in its All-Freshman Team.

It pays to be efficient The Purple Aces were 9-3 (0.750) when Feliciano and Vázquez combined for a hitting percentage of 0.210 or higher.

Throughout the season, the aforementioned Vázquez put on quite a show of her own, on both offense and defense. The 5’11 outside hitter from Toa Alta collected 17 double-doubles in 30 matches in which she participated, accumulating 383 kills and 407 digs altogether in the season. In some matches, she genuinely seemed to be everywhere, frequently getting to the ball and keeping a play alive when it seemed the Aces would have to surrender the point. She had five 10-20 matches and three 20-10 matches, including 29 kills and 12 digs in a four-set victory against Missouri State. The 29 kills were the 17th highest single-match total in a four-set match in 2019.

2019 also marked the debut of Fernando Morales as head coach of the Purple Aces, initially on an interim basis, then full-time when he was signed to a multi-year contract on October 30. Morales led the Purple Aces to their first winning season since 2010 and their first MVC Tournament berth since 2008, where they exited in the first round after losing 3 contested sets to the eventual champions Illinois State. Had Feliciano been available for that match, who knows what might have happened? Almost a year to the day of signing with the Purple Aces, on October 2020, Morales was named the head coach of the Puerto Rico Women's Volleyball National Team. In his playing days, Morales lent his services as a setter to professional teams all over the world, including Russia, Greece, and Spain, and represented Puerto Rico at the 1987 Pan American Games in Rio de Janeiro and many other international tournaments as well. Morales is the son of two-time Olympian and Puerto Rican basketball legend Mario 'Quijote' Morales.

Together, a defense anchored by Brazilian senior Gabriela Macedo, who was fifth in the country in digs with 704, the soul-crushing blocks of freshman Hannah Watkins, the offensive capabilities of Tam, Feliciano and Vázquez, and the crafty service of Laura Ruiz (Cayey) made the Purple Aces one of the most entertaining teams to watch during the season. Although they will be losing Tam and Macedo to graduation, an exciting and more seasoned young core of players coming back, combined with the leadership of a senior setter in Allana McInnis (and up-and-coming setter Cecilia Thon (San Juan), who saw some playing time towards the end of the season) have volleyball fans in Evansville and Puerto Rico looking forward to the near future. Maybe a trip to the NCAA Tournament is not be too far in the offing.

Conducting the offense Throughout the season, Allana McInnis set up Feliciano and Vázquez for the vast majority of their kills, tallying up 1,227 assists in 2019.

A most versatile performer Throughout her college career, Florida International University's Lina Bernier (San Juan) has epitomized the college student athlete, excelling on the hardwood, at the beach, and in the classroom. (Photos: FIU Athletics)

The ultimate student athlete

On affairs both athletic and academic, Lina Bernier is a stud

Playing the position of libero in volleyball is that rare of life's endeavours in which being tall is not only not an advantage, but it might actually be detrimental. After all, it stands to reason that having one's knees and hands closer to the ground is a very desirable trait for a role whose main description appears to be: never let the ball hit the court. If you agree with that premise, then you would also agree, wouldn't you, that Florida International University's libero Lina Bernier (San Juan) is some kind of an outlier, and an outstanding one, too. At 5'11, Bernier was the tallest player in the country (NCAA Division I) to tally 500 or more digs in the 2019-2020 academic year, having dug up 530 of them by season's end, as well as the tallest to collect over 5 digs per set, clocking in at 5.30 per set.

It seems even more impressive that she managed the feat for a team that had trouble finding the road to victory: FIU barely managed to eke out 10 wins during the year, finishing the season with a 10-16 record and losing 10 of their final 11 matches. Bernier's best individual effort of the year came on a November 1st loss against North Texas, when she recorded 41 digs, the 7th highest total in a 5-set NCAA Division I match for the year. 2018 was much more auspicious for Bernier and the Golden Panthers, who are under the leadership of Hall of Famer and two-time U.S. Olympian, Rita Buck-Crockett. They beat Conference-USA powerhouse Rice for the first and only time in their history in the regular season finale, and reached the conference championship match, also for the first time in history, where they lost the rematch with the Owls in 3 tightly contested sets. Bernier recorded 558 digs that season, at a 4.77 per set clip. In 2016, redshirt freshman Bernier "played every position except middle blocker", and, in a telling sign of things to come, led the team in digs with 257. Bernier had a double-double (10 kills and 17 digs) in the very first match of her college career in the Fall of 2015 before having to shut it down for the year after enduring a season-ending injury in her 4th match. Bernier also had to miss the 2017 fall season in its entirety due to injury, so she effectively had a 3-year indoor college volleyball career. In it, Bernier tallied 1,376 digs, 313 assists, and 201 kills.

Bernier has had quite a career in the outdoor modality of the sport, too. In the summer that preceded her first fall semester at FIU, she and fellow San Juan native Eva Torruella (Tulane University) represented Puerto Rico in beach volleyball at the 2015 Pan American Games held in Toronto, Canada. Although the two teenagers only managed a single win and finished 12th out of 16 teams, they gained valuable experience that has translated into successful college volleyball careers.

The peerless leader FIU's head volleyball -and beach volleyball- coach is Rita Buck-Crockett, a two-time Olympian and silver medallist at the Los Angeles Summer Olympics in 1984. Known as Rita Crockett in her playing days, and nicknamed "The Rocket" for her phenomenal leaping ability, Crockett enjoyed a professional career that took her to places like Italy, Switzerland, and Japan. In 1989, she and Brazilian Jackie Silva won the World Beach Volleyball Championship. In 2011, Crockett was inducted into the International Volleyball Hallf of Fame, located in Holyoke, Massachusetts. (Photos: FIU Athletics and Volleyball Hall of Fame)

After redshirting her first college beach volleyball season (spring 2016) due to the injury she suffered in the fall, Bernier played beach volleyball for FIU in the spring of 2017, and it was quite a debut. She went 19-8 with partner Natalia Girón (Guatemala), and 10-1 with Katie Hogan (Missouri). At the CCSA (Coastal Collegiate Sports Association) Beach Volleyball Championships in April, Hogan and Bernier were named to the CCSA All-Tournament Team after going 5-0 in the tournament. 2018 was more uneven individually for Bernier, as she played with 3 different partners and compiled an overall record of 17-15. However, for the first and so far only time in its history, FIU qualified for the NCAA's National Collegiate Beach Volleyball Championship, one of only 8 teams to do so. There, they lost via sweep to UCLA (who would go on to win the title that year, and the next) and pushed the back-to-back defending champions University of Southern California to play all 5 matches before being defeated 2-3. Bernier and partner Erika Zembyla (Cyprus) were up a set (21-19) in their match against the UCLA pair before it was truncated after FIU accumulated 3 losses, and they lost a nationally televised match against USC pair Terese Cannon and Sammy Slater 19-21, 21-17, 15-12, which decided the dual in USC's favor.

(Photos: FIU Athletics)

In the spring of 2019, Bernier paired with fellow islander Zembyla in the majority of FIU's duals, with the duo going 20-5 overall during the year. After winning all 4 of their matches in straight sets at the 2019 CCSA Tournament, Bernier and Zembyla were named to the CCSA All-Tournament Team, a first for Zembyla and a second time for Bernier. At the end of the season, their 14-3 record in court #4 earned them the AVCA Top Flight award, which recognizes beach volleyball pairs that play at least 15 matches in a specific court (flight) and win at least 75% of those matches. Although FIU played really well against perennial national title contenders USC and UCLA throughout the year, they did not receive an invitation to play in the nationals this time. In the spring of 2020, Bernier and Gina Lipscomb (California) went 8-0 before the health crisis shut down spring college sports in the United States. In April 2020, El Vocero, a newspaper in Puerto Rico, reported that Bernier and Torruella, among others, would be seeking the classification to the Tokyo Olympics, now to be held in 2021. Bernier, the Olympian? I wouldn't put it past her.

Bernier's life achievements are not circumscribed by the volleyball courts. Far from it. A biomedical engineering major, Bernier has been awarded Conference-USA's Commissioner's Academic Medal, which recognizes student athletes with a GPA of 3.75 or higher, five times: 2016 - 2020. She has also been named to All-Academic teams in both Conference-USA and in the CCSA. In November 2018, Bernier, with a GPA of 3.80 at the time, was named a Google Cloud Academic All-District First Team. In July 2019, Bernier received the Outstanding Graduate in Biomedical Engineering Award at FIU's commencement ceremony, with a GPA of 3.82 at graduation (Source: Facebook video shared by proud mom Niurka Colón). actually Bernier the engineer (and graduate student and lab assistant) who collected those 500+ digs in the 2019 fall semester while pursuing her master's degree, and who will be putting the final touches to her college beach volleyball career in the spring of 2021, health crisis permitting. As she does, and as she no doubt prepares for life after graduation, one can only wonder what else lies ahead of such an extraordinary individual, who already has achieved so much at such a young age.

A young setter comes back from Egypt

In the early summer days of 2019, Puerto Rico was eyeing a berth in the upcoming U18 World Volleyball Championship that would be held in El Cairo, Egypt in September of that year. Having last qualified for the event in 2013, three editions prior, a spot in the tournament was far from a given. The volleyball federation came up with a strategy: In order to prepare the U18 team for the event that would serve as qualifier for the U18 Worlds, the U18 Pan-American Cup, the U18 team would first be sent to Lima, Perú to compete at the U20 Pan-American Cup against players further ahead in their athletic development. The U20 and U18 Pan-American Cups were scheduled to take place in back-to-back weeks in May of 2019. At the U20 Pan-American Cup, Mariana Trujillo (Guayanilla), barely 17 years of age at the time, was named Best Setter of the tournament, which was all the more impressive given the level of competition she was playing against, and the probably overmatched Puerto Rican team managed 2 wins in 5 matches. Although las boricuas lost several matches in the minimum 3 sets, the experience would prove extremely valuable very shortly afterwards.

An eventful fortnight In May 2019, the Puerto Rican U18 Team competed in the U20 and U18 Pan American Cups on consecutive weeks. Trujillo saved her best for when it mattered most, with 31 running sets and 20 digs in a victory over Chile at the U18 Pan American Cup in Durango, México that earned Puerto Rico the classification to the 2019 U18 World Championship to be held in September 2019 in El Cairo, Egypt.

The following week, at the U18 Cup in Durango, Mexico, Puerto Rico overpowered Guatemala in the first match before edging out Perú in a five-set thriller. During that second match, Trujillo experienced difficulty breathing and pain, which was later determined to be due to an abdominal strain, so she sat out the following match against Cuba, one in which the Puerto Rican side also came out on top in five sets. Puerto Rico finished the preliminary round undefeated and at the top of its group and received a bye to the semis, which gave Trujillo a chance to rest and recover. In the semis, Puerto Rico would play Chile, the winner of the contest to earn the coveted berth for the U18 Worlds. In that crucial match, Trujillo came back, and she was in fine form, dishing out 31 running sets and digging 20 balls, both her highest single-match totals at either Cup, and Puerto Rico beat Chile 3-1, achieving the much sought after classification. Even though Puerto Rico was bested by Perú in the rematch between the two teams in the finals, the mission had been accomplished: Puerto Rico had classified for the U18 Worlds, and the players could now call themselves mundialistas.

(NCAA Division I) in the Fall of 2019 and participated in four matches with the Lady Lions before departing for Egypt. At the U18 Worlds, Puerto Rico took relatively lopsided losses against perennial powerhouses China (4th place finish in the tournament), Brazil (3rd place), and Italy (tournament runner-up); lost much more tightly contested four-set matches against Argentina, Korea, Thailand, and the host country; and beat Cameroon in a five-set match. Several members of that Puerto Rican team are scheduled to play college volleyball in the states: Sofía Victoriá with the University of Florida; María Carattini, Valeria Otero, and Alondra Maldonado with Delaware State University; Paola Matos with Norfolk State University (Virginia); Claudia Borri with Bryant University (Rhode Island); Jennifer Collazo with Barry University (Florida), and Cristal Paulino with St. Francis College in New York. Those debuts, however, will take place in the 2020-2021 academic year. Trujillo made hers in the 2019-2020 academic year. It seems the precocious Miss Trujillo simply couldn't wait to get her start in college volleyball. Indeed, Trujillo was the youngest college setter in the United States (NCAA Division I) in 2019-2020. Despite missing a fifth of the season while representing Puerto Rico in El Cairo, and splitting setter duties with fellow freshman Breylee Linder throughout the season, the youngster had dished out 310 assists and dug 132 balls by season's end, her eighteenth birthday still almost half a year away.

Trujillo will continue her studies in business administration in Puerto Rico, at the Recinto Universitario de Mayagüez. "My parents have always taught me that I need to maintain a balance between academics and sports", said Trujillo in an interview with Guayanilla's Department of Sports and Recreation. "For me, academics have always been the priority. I always said that sports was just a means to become an accomplished professional." Since el RUM is the premier institution of higher learning on the island, and it also has won 3 of the last 4 volleyball championships in the Liga Atléitca Interuniversitaria (2016-2018, and runner-up in 2019), it is safe to say that Trujillo has more than her share of satisfying challenges ahead of her. Adding Trujillo's talents to a mix that already includes exciting young attackers like Camila Arvelo and Jovyrelis Ayala, as well as the presence of fearsome middle blocker María Fernanda López, means fans of the green and white have much to look forward to in the near future.

Leading the way In 2019, American International College could boast of 3 players at the top of the Northeast-10 Conference in some statistic Left: Junior Andrea Serra (Toa Alta) led the conference in kills with 532, 148 more than any other player. She was named the 2019 NE-10 Conference Player of the Year, the AVCA East Region Player of the Year, as well as an Honorable Mention AVCA All-America, the only player from Puerto Rico to be named to an All-America team. Center: Sophomore Amanda Rodriguez (Florida) led the NE-10 in digs with 569. Right: Freshman setter Naomi Eckert (Toa Baja) led the conference in assists with 1,208, and was a First Team All-Conference selection as well as the AVCA East Region Rookie of the Year. The playmaker and the finisher

American International College, out of Massachusetts and in the Northeast-10 Conference (NCAA Division II), began their 2019 volleyball season rather inauspiciously, losing its first eight matches in a row (albeit some heavily contested ones, and all on the road), and owning a 2-14 record at the halfway point. It must have been a shocking start for a team that had been to the NCAA Tournament each of the previous 3 years, reaching the Elite 8 in 2016 and 2018. The Yellow Jackets lost their first two matches in straight sets, lost the next two in four, then lost four 5-setters in a row at the Wildcat Invitational in Delaware before going home to Massachusetts, where they won their first match of the season. That ninth match marked the return to play of senior Jana Potic (Serbia), the 2018 NE-10 Player of the Year, who had missed the first eight matches. In those four 5-set matches in Delaware, which took place in a 36-hour span in September, there were some extraordinary individual performances that AIC couldn't leverage into victories. On Friday, September 13, junior Andrea Serra (Toa Alta) had 31 kills with an attack percentage of 0.397 in an early afternoon match, and 28 kills with an attack percentage of 0.324 in an early evening match the same day. 59 kills on a combined 0.356 hitting is a good day's work any way one looks at it. Serra also collected 27 and 26 kills in Saturday's double header, while freshman Naomi Eckert (Toa Baja) dished out 62 assists in the first match and 53 more in the second. Both players' performances set all sorts of new offensive records for the Yellow Jackets, but still, coming up short in 4 straight 5-set matches within a day and half had to have been a little frustrating.

A Season in Two Acts After an ominous start to the 2019 season (2-14 at the halfway marker), the AIC volleyball team found a way to turn things around. It may have been defensive adjustments that made the difference. In their first 16 matches, although AIC enjoyed some spectacular offensive performances fom Serra and Eckert, it nonetheless found itself on the losing end of the scoreboard. Their opponents' hitting percentage in those 16 matches was 0.192. In the second half of the season, it was 0.125, and AIC's record over that stretch (12-3) reflected the drastic improvement. AIC made it to the NE-10 tournament conference finals for the second year in a row, where they lost a tightly contested 5-set match to Bentley University. (Photo: RJB Sports)

At the season's halfway marker, starting on October 1st, the Yellow Jackets started to turn things around, reeling off 8 consecutive wins, 5 of them via sweep, and losing only 4 total sets over that stretch. They entered the NE-10 Conference tournament riding on a 10-2 run, then beat Franklin Pierce University and Stonehill College in 4 sets apiece to reach the conference finals. In that match, Bentley University, with whom AIC had split the regular season series, found a way to at least contain Serra, who finished the match with only 13 kills while still managing 22 digs. Bentley won the match and the automatic bid to the national tournament, in, you guessed it, 5 sets, by climbing out of a 0-2 hole to take the last 3 sets of the contest in a row. AIC had a 3-8 record in 5-set matches throughout the season. Still, they definitely turned things around: After winning only 12.5% of their matches in the first half of the season, they won 75% of them (12 out of 15) in the second, finishing with a 14-17 record and coming very close to becoming conference champions, which they last managed to do in 1996. AIC also was the NE-10 runner-up in 2018. During the last 15 matches of the season, AIC's defense picked up dramatically, allowing opponents almost 70 fewer attack percentage points than it did in the first 16 matches (0.125 vs. 0.192). It's hard to imagine that if Potic, who finished her college career as AIC's all-time leader in kills with 1,460, had been

New Kid On The Block Naomi Eckert broke the previous single-match AIC freshman record for assists at least 6 times in 2019. The 62 assists she dished out on 9/14/19 were the 18th highest total in a 5-set match in NCAA Division II, whereas her 58 assists on 10/8/19 were the 11th highest total in a 4-set match. The 58-assists match had the added satisfaction of ending in victory for the Yellow Jackets. (Photo: RJB Sports) available for those first 8 matches, AIC wouldn't have received an invitation to play in the 2019 NCAA Tournament. With Serra, Eckert, and standout libero Amanda Rodriguez, who led the conference in digs with 568, all coming back in 2020-2021, they might have had a good chance of winning that elusive conference title (and an automatic NCAA Tournament berth), except there won't be a 2020-2021 conference season. On January 13, 2021, the NE-10 announced the cancellation of the volleyball season due to the health crisis. The teams are free to schedule matches outside the conference as they see it, which AIC has announced it will seek to do.

Along the way in 2019, Serra collected 532 kills (ranked 3rd nationally, and over 140 kills more than anyone else in the NE-10), along with 414 digs and 55 service aces (tied with 2 others for 16th place nationally), one of only two players with at least 500 kills and at least 400 digs in NCAA Division II. She was also the only female player from Puerto Rico to be named to an AVCA All-America team, receiving an Honorable Mention for the NCAA Division II AVCA All-America team. Freshman Eckert topped the previous single-match high in assists for an AIC freshman at least 6 times throughout the season, and led the NE-10 Conference both in total assists (1,208, 29th in the country) and assists per set (9.98). The AVCA also took notice of her, naming Eckert the AVCA East Region Freshman of the Year. Sophomore middle blocker Claudia González (Ponce) also stood out, collecting 66 blocks (10th in the NE-10) and 137 kills in the season, while fellow sophomore Lyanne Hernández, the only player from Peñuelas in U.S. college volleyball, saw a good deal of court action, registering 28 kills, 46 digs, and 10 blocks. In 2020-2021, freshman Paola Soto (Coamo) will be joining the team. While it would be terrific to see a team that can boast of five Puerto Rican players take the court, especially a succesful one like AIC, featuring a pair of studs in Eckert and Serra, the safety of the players should be kept foremost in mind.

The Coach The Yellow Jackets' head volleyball coach is Matt Cribbin. Under his guidance, AIC reached the NCAA Tournament 3 years in a row, 2016 - 2018, earning its first-ever Tournament victory in 2016, where they reached the Elite Eight. AIC also reached the Elite 8 in 2018. The last two NE-10 Player of the Year award recipients played for Cribbin at AIC: Jana Potic in 2018 and Andrea Serra in 2019. (Photo: RJB Sports)

The Serbian Star Jana Potic was the 2018 NE-10 Player of the Year and an AVCA All-American Honorable Mention. Although she missed a significant portion of the 2019 season, she still finished her college career as AIC's all-time leader in kills with 1,460.

Keeping one's skills sharp during the shutdown In the fall of 2020, Naomi Eckert, like many other students, was doing distance learning from her home in Puerto Rico due to the health crisis, which also caused the cancellation of AIC's fall volleyball season. In order to keep her game dialed-in, she trained on Saturdays with coach, mentor, and fellow setter Glorimar Ortega (right, Naranjito), who has played professionally in France and represented Puerto Rico in the 2006 and 2010 FIVB World Volleyball Championships.

A pair of underclassmen rise to the occasion

After a 16-year absence, Manhattanville College (New York) volleyball returned to the Skyline Conference (NCAA Division III) and won its first-ever conference tournament title, earning an automatic bid to its also first-ever NCAA Division III Women's Volleyball Championship tournament. The Valiants went undefeated in the conference in the regular season, entering the Skyline Conference Tournament with an 11-0 conference record. Along the way, they made quick work of most teams, but were pushed to the limit by Farmingdale State College and the pre-season conference favorite, the United States Merchant Marine Academy. Freshman setter Vianca Vital (Carolina), sophomore outside hitter Alejandra Figueroa (Guaynabo), and senior outside hitter Austen Brauer (New York) saved their very best for the matches against those 2 teams.

Against the Merchant Academy on October 9, the Valiants had to surmount a 1-2 set deficit after winning the first, and then climb out of a 1-8 hole in the fifth before they could edge out the Mariners 17-15 and claim victory. Vital dished out 50 assists, Vianca Vital's 2019 season, by the numbers Vital's 934 assists in 2019 placed her at the top of the Skyline Conference and established a new record for the Valiants. She was also 3rd in service aces in the conference with 64 and sixth in digs with 390. All four of her 50+ assists matches came against either the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy or Farmingdale State College, the Valiants' toughest in-conference foes in 2019. (Photo: Mike McLaughlin)

a personal best up until that point, and Brauer had 28 kills, a career-high of her own. Vital also collected 17 digs in the match, while sophomore Alejandra Figueroa (Guaynabo) had a career night, too, with 19 kills, the last of which was the final point in the match. Eight days later, the Valiants found themselves in a seesaw battle against Farmingdale, with neither team able to win 2 sets in a row. Manhattanville was finally able to secure the win in the fifth on Vital's 53rd assist and Brauer's 35th kill of the match, career-bests for both players and new records for the program as well. Vital also added 17 digs and 3 service aces, while Figueroa had herself a career night, too, with 21 kills. Those two regular season matches would be a preamble of the Skyline Conference Championship.

In the conference tournament semifinals, Manhattanville once again faced Farmingdale, and Vital once again proved equal to the task, and then some. Her 60 assists in the 5-set match topped her own single-match assists record for the program by 7, and she also collected 14 digs. The 60 assists were also the 22nd highest total (tied with 5 others)) in a 5-set match in the country (NCAA Division III) in 2019. Figueroa also stepped up, collecting her 3rd double-double of the season with 15 kills and 12 digs, while freshman Felicity Hoffert (New York) had the match of her life, collecting 22 kills (more than twice as many as she had ever had before) on 0.310 hitting. Fellow Newyorker Brauer had 22 kills of her own, including the last point of the match. Next came the finals, a rematch against the Merchant Marine Academy, whose defeat at the hands of the Valiants on October 9 had been its only conference loss in the year. It was only fitting that these 2 teams, the 11-0 Valiants and the 10-1 Mariners, would face each other in the conference finals. The match lived up to its exciting promise. The Mariners pushed the Valiants to their limits for a second occasion, but it was not to be this time for them either. Vital conducted the attack and stuffed the stat sheet every which way with a performance for the ages: 52 assists, 26 digs, 4 kills, and 4 aces, the last of which gave the Valiants the match and the title. Brauer had 28 kills, along the way setting a

The Valiant leader Manhattanville College head volleyball coach Amanda Alayon led her charges to a 24-6 overall record in 2019, including an 11-0 Skyline Conference record. The Valiants won the Skyline Conference tournament championship after two hard-fought battles against Farmingdale State College and the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy and earned their first-ever berth in the NCAA Division III national tournament. new season record in kills (403) for the program. Brauer was also named the tournament's Most Outstanding Player. Figueroa had one of her best matches of the year, too, collecting 18 kills and 16 digs, her 4th double-double of the season, as well as 3 service aces. The Valiants were now, for the first time in their history, conference tournament champions, and would also be making their maiden trip to the NCAA Division III Women's Volleyball Championship tournament.

Vital's 934 assists during the season were over 100 more than the previous program record. She was named to the 1st team All-Conference in the Skyline Conference, and so, of course, was Brauer, who was also named the Skyline Conference Player of the Year. Valiants coach Amanda Alayon was named the conference Coach of the Year. Figueroa's 284 kills during the year were the 6th highest total all-time for the Manhattanville program. Although to say that the outgoing senior Brauer will be missed is the mother of all understatements, the performance in the clutch of the two underclassmen and marketing majors Vital and Figueroa, as well as those of other young players like the aforementioned Hoffert, freshman libero Geena Torres, and celebrated Puerto Rican freshman Hannah Peña (5 blocks in the conference championship match) give hope to Valiants fans that there is much to look forward to in the near future.

Four times a champion María Pérez and the Maine Maritime Academy Mariners won the North Atlantic Conference Championship and earned a berth in the NCAA Division III Tournament in each of the last 4 years (2016-2019): each and every year Pérez was with the program. (Photos: Tony Llorena Photography).

On land and on the high seas

María Pérez puts the finishing touches to a stellar college volleyball career and graduates with a rather unusual degree

In the North Atlantic Conference (NCAA Division III), volleyball championships are won by the handful.Teams, it seems, either win four or more titles in a row, or none at all. One would imagine a "three-peat", held in the highest regard anywhere else, would probably elicit an indifferent shrug in the realm of NAC volleyball. The last four years, 2016 to 2019, have belonged to the Maine Maritime Academy, who have lost not a single conference match in that span. In the last 2 years of this their second reign (they also prevailed between 2007 and 2010, a rule sandwiched between Mount Ida College's 5-year conference dominion (2002-2006) and Colby-Sawyer College's 5 years at the top between 2011 and 2015), they haven't even dropped a set in conference play. Senior libero María Pérez (San Juan), a vessel operations and technology major, has held the reins of the Mariner's defense during their most recent 4-year run.

When she was in high school, Pérez wanted to study marine biology. As recounted by Pérez to José Encarnación of newspaper El Calce, she was searching for opportunities to play volleyball in the states and uploaded some highlight videos of herself to the internet. Mariners third year head volleyball coach Tricia Carver, who for the first time had been named Coach of the Year of the NAC in 2015, reached out. Upon arriving in Maine, Pérez fell in love with the state and the school and discovered her true passion was sailing: She now dreams of sailing around the world.

The 2016 Mariners volleyball team was a young one, featuring one senior, zero juniors, and twelve underclassmen: four sophomores and eight freshmen, Pérez among them. Nevertheless, the team improved significantly on the previous year's 18-13 record, going 22-9 and running the table in conference play. In the NAC Tournament Championship finals, they faced five-time defending champion Colby-Sawyer College out of New Hampshire, who had beaten the Mariners in the tournament finals each of the five times they had won the title, each time via sweep. Team captain Gillian O'Neal (California), the lone senior in the Mariners squad, had been on the losing end of three of those championship matches, and the rest of the squad were very keen to turn things around and send her off on a positive note. "We all wanted it so bad", reminisced Pérez in a May 2020 interview. "Last point of the game, I remember looking at Gill, and, I think at that point I understood what [it] was like to be a teammate. That eye contact I had with her after that last point when I looked at her, it kind of clicked something in me. Every game after that last point, I wanted to look at my team and have that feeling I had." The Mariners accomplished their mission, beating Colby-Sawyer 3-1 and winning their first NAC title since 2010. Pérez collected 23 digs in the last match and was named to the All-Tournament Team, as were setter and fellow rookie Sydney Adams (Connecticut) and O'Neal, who was also named Tournament MVP as well as the NAC Player of the

An unusual major At MMA, Pérez majored in vessel operations and technology, a program whose graduates "are often employed in the workboat industry on research vessels, offshore supply vessels, eco-cruise ships, tugboats, in the fishing fleet, and in coastal transportation". Year and Senior Scholar Athlete. Pérez would be named to the All-Tournament again in 2017 and 2019. During the season, Pérez tallied 459 digs, second most in program history, and was named the 2016 NAC Defensive Player of the Year. She would be a repeat-winner of that award in 2017 and 2018. Mariners head coach Tricia Carver was named 2016 NAC Coach of the Year for a second straight season, an honor she would also win in 2017 to make it three in a row.

In 2019, Pérez and Adams, now both seniors, earned All-Tournament and 1st Team All-Conference distinctions, with Adams also named the NAC Senior Scholar Athlete of the Year, and Pérez recognized as the Maine Maritime Academy Female Leader of the Year. "She drew out the absolute best in her teammates and coaches, both in their physical skills and emotional capacity," said Carver of Pérez. The Mariners once again won the conference tournament, earning their 4th consecutive berth in the NCAA Division III nationals. Although the Mariners lost in the opening match, as they did in each of the preceding 3 years, they became the first NAC team to ever win a set in the national tournament.

María Pérez finished her college career in the same place she finished her freshman year: representing the NAC in the NCAA Division III national tournament. Although she was not named the NAC Defensive Player of the Year in her senior year, she was a First Team All-Conference, and, maybe more importantly, recognized as a leader by her institution. As she (quite literally) sails off into the sunset, her dreams of circling the world by sea in tow, the experience of being looked to for inspiration by her teammates should be a very valuable asset in her future.

HEART OF AMERICA ATHLETIC CONFERENCE

* Players that were recognized by their conference for their performance in the classroom. All conferences of four-year institutions require athletes to have a 3.00 GPA as a bare minimum to receive an award, and several conferences set the bar higher: 3.20, 3.30, 3.40, and, in the case of The Sun Conference, a 3.50 GPA as a minimum. Lina Bernier was awarded Conference USA's Commmissioner's Medal (GPA > 3.75) for thethe 5th year in a row, while Sharlissa de Jesús earned Southern Conference's Commmissioner's Medal (GPA > 3.80). The NJCAA has 3 tiers of academic awards: 3rd team (GPA > 3.60), 2nd team (GPA > 3.80), and 1st team (GPA = 4.00)
